DECORATIONS

ARMY

The authorized decorations of the United States are as follows:

1. The Medal of Honor: Awarded in the name of the Congress of the United States to each person who, as an officer or enlisted man in the Army, in an action involving an actual conflict with the enemy, distinguishes himself conspicuously by gallantry and intrepidity, at the risk of his own life, above and beyond the call of duty.
2. The Distinguished Service Cross: Awarded to a person who, while serving in any capacity with the Army of the United States, distinguishes himself by extraordinary heroism in connection with military operations against an enemy. The military status of a person is necessary for this award.
3. The Distinguished Service Medal: This award is made to a person who, while serving in any capacity with the Army of the United States, distinguishes himself by exceptionally meritorious service to the Government in a duty of great responsibility. It may, with certain restrictions, be awarded to the enlisted personnel in lieu of a certificate of merit. A military service is also necessary for this award.
4. The Silver Star: This award is made to any person who, while an officer or an enlisted man of the Army, is cited for gallantry in action, in orders, published:

which citation does not warrant the bestowal of a decoration of a higher order.

5. The Purple Heart: This award was established by General George Washington in 1782. This decoration is awarded to any person who, while serving in the Army of the United States, performs any single meritorious act of extraordinary fidelity of essential service. A wound which necessitates the professional care of a medical officer and which was received in action with an enemy, may in the judgment of the commanding officers authorized to make such an award, be construed as resulting from a singularly meritorious act of essential service.

6. The Soldier's Medal: The award is made to persons performing heroic actions not involving the actual conflict with an enemy. It is awarded to:

- A—Members of the United States Army.
- B—Members of the National Guards, not in Federal service, Organized Reserve Corps, not on actual duty, but under circumstances relating to military service.
- C—Members of the United States Navy and U. S. Marines while in service with the United States Army.
- D—Members of foreign nations, military, naval and
